Title: ENGLISH MUFFIN BAGEL

Commissioner for Patents
Alexandria, VA

Sir:

This is a petition to revive.

This invention was patented June 2, 1998, and was the subject of a reissue application granted filing date June 5, 2000.

Prosecution continued, resulting in Office Actions and responses, including an interview with both inventors, the attorney, and the Examiner present. The interview took place with a response hand-carried to the Examiner. Through mix-up this was not entered; the inventors and attorney thought the response had been entered., and did not file another copy.

Abandonment happened. A petition to revive was denied because the statutory payment was $20.00 short and the Deposit Account was also depleted, without knowledge of the attorney. Upon receiving notice, the attorney replenished the deposit account, but this took a very long time, apparently for security reasons after the 9/11 attack.

Telephone discussions convinced the attorney that all was well, and everyone waited.

Too long. Abandonment continues. This is a petition asking for all fees to be charged to the deposit account (!! -1257) and the reissue application be revived.

Meanwhile, the 3.5 year maintenance fee on the original patent -- chargeable to the reissue patent application -- has expired. This petition asks that the maintenance fee be accepted for the revived reissue patent application, and that the revived reissue patent application be returned to the Examiner for further action, with Notice of Allowance expected per the interview.

There was never any intention to abandon this patent application, which was thought to be awaiting action by the Examiner, nor to skimp on payment of fees, which were believed to have been properly paid from the deposit account. Counsel, a semi-retired sole practitioner inexperienced in the payment of maintenance fees in reissue situations, simply did not know that the 3.5 maintenance fee on the original patent was required during pendency of the reissue. Counsel has subsequently found out that maintenance fees are required on such original patents during reissue prosecution, and will absorb all extra charges.

Please accept this petition to revive.

Inventors
